HOUSE VOTES TO OUTLAW OPA FOOD SUBSIDIES

Congress and Price Control Agency Head for Feud; OPA Funds Slashed.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, June 19—Congress and the office of price administration headed today toward a showdown feud over food policies and these developments:

—Decision of the house to cut OPA's funds by 20 per cent and outlaw its proposed program for subsidizing price reductions.

—Demands for a showdown on the subsidy issue in the senate with a bloc of 14 senators charging that meat price roll-backs were demoralizing livestock interests.

—Announcement that 14 packing plants had suspended or were ready to, attributing their decision to government price regulations or uncertainty over the subsidy program.

—Disclosure that Food Administrator Chester C. Davis had concluded that the administration's program of price control was unworkable without centralized authority and was in danger of collapse. He was described as at odds completely with President Roosevelt's closest advisers.

The house took a resounding whack at OPA in general last night while passing a $2,898,941,464 appropriation bill for 18 war agencies. Republican amendments aimed at OPA were passed in rapid succession and members of both parties seized the opportunity to blast Price Administrator Chester C. Davis.

Dirksen Leads Attack
The attack got under way when Representative Dirksen (R-Ill.) proposed a reduction of $35,000,000 in OPA funds for the next 12 months, chopping them to $130,000,000, compared with $177,335,000 appropriated last year. Republicans almost solidly supported the amendment, which was accepted, 183 to 147.

Dirksen then wrote into the bill on a vote of 160 to 106, his anti-subsidy amendment, which provided in effect that none of OPA's funds may be used for the salaries or expenses of any employees promulgating or administering subsidy programs.

He followed with a third amendment, accepted 188 to 144, denying salary or expenses to any price policy-making official, except the administrator, who has not had at least five consecutive years of experience in the field of business in which he is helping to shape OPA policy.

Davis Says He'll Quit if Congress Cuts Down OWI

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, June 19—Elmer Davis said today he would quit his job as director of the office of war information if its domestic branch is abolished, as the house voted to do yesterday.

"If the senate concurs with the opinion of the house, there will be no OWI, and that is that," the director told an informal press conference. He added it would "also be the end of me as director."

"This was a combination overseas and domestic job that I was called down to do. If the senate concurs in the house view, that job is ended. It will be the job of somebody else to take care of whatever they choose to do in foreign information."

Answers Accused
Davis replied also to accusations made by Representative Starnes (D-Ala.), who told the house yesterday that this country needed no Joseph Goebbels or Virginia Gayda.

"There is quite a difference between me and Goebbels, as Mr. Starnes would discover if he read the order by which President Roosevelt created OWI, or followed our activities," Davis remarked. "For one thing, Dr. Goebbels (Turn to OWI, Page 15)

Germans Reinforce Denmark as Possible Invasion Target

Number of Troops There Increased; Allies Step Up Attacks on Islands Around Italy.

By The Associated Press
German fears that the allied invasion armies may strike into Denmark, northern gateway to the reich, were reflected today in reports that Adolf Hitler's high command had built up an elaborate system of anti-invasion "nerve centers" in Jutland and posted heavier guards on Danish railways.

London quarters estimated that the Germans had recently increased their garrison in Denmark from 60,000 to 200,000 troops.

Allied seizure of the little kingdom, 350 miles across the north seas from England, would isolate German forces in Norway and set the stage for a short-cut march on Berlin itself.

Stockholm advices said the Germans had built a series of camouflage military towns in Jutland, on the Danish north coast, from which highly mobile units could be rushed to any danger point in Denmark.

Expect Blow Tuesday
The Germans have named June 22—next Tuesday—as "der tag" for an allied invasion of the continent, although neither Berlin nor Rome has offered more than wild guesses as to where the blow or blows would fall.

In the Mediterranean, allied warplanes in great strength renewed their paralyzing assault on Italy's island strongholds of Sicily and Sardinia, shot up rail targets in Nazi-occupied Greece and attacked enemy shipping off the Grecian coast.

Dispatches from allied headquarters said the greatest force of American planes to go into action since the surrender of Pantelleria battered the Italian islands and shot down 39 enemy planes in combat.

Pantelleria fell under a climactic assault by 1,000 allied planes on June 11.

The sharply increased tempo indicated that the zero hour might be near for an allied invasion of Sicily, Sardinia or even the Italian mainland.

A Rome broadcast highlighted Italy's invasion tension with the announcement that nine more Italian provinces had been declared "operational zones" on orders by Premier Mussolini.

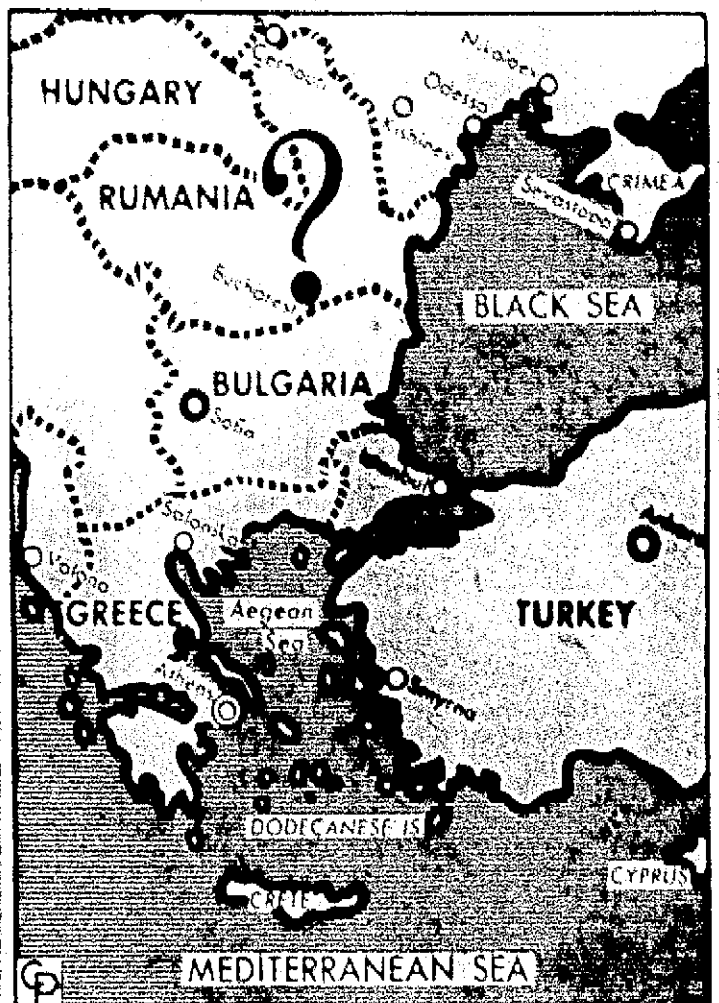

The Italians said 14 persons were killed and 20 injured at Messina.

Northern Europe Quiet
Northern Europe had a quiet night—the first after a week-long pounding of vital German war centers by RAF and American bombers.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters announced that a strong force of U. S. Flying Fortresses from North Africa scored many hits on the ferry terminal at Messina, Sicily, only a few miles from the Italian mainland.

Other allied raiders blasted the airfield at Mila, on the western tip of Sicily, and attacked Olbia and Golfo Aranci in Sardinia. Marauder bombers were credited with setting three axis ships aflame at Olbia.

Along with these blows from

SIGNS OF ACTION IN BALKANS. Rumania's peace overtures, the closing of the border between Syria and Turkey behind which the British 6th and 10th armies have been assembling, and rumors that Turkey may break with the Axis indicate that the Balkans may soon see an active fighting front. Regardless of Turkey's position, the British Near East forces may be ready to strike through Crete and the Balkan peninsula. This is a section to watch as invasion develops.

Writer Has Ringside Seat As Japs Lose 77 Planes

AP Correspondent Sees U. S. Planes Riddle Nip Force of 120 Over Guadalcanal; Artillery Helps Do Job.

Veteran Associated Press war correspondent J. Norman Lodge gives a first-hand account of the great Japanese air defeat over Guadalcanal last Wednesday, a defeat which allied military strategists have termed a major setback to enemy air power in the Pacific theater. Lodge had a ringside seat during the entire attack.

By J. NORMAN LODGE
Associated Press Writer
GUADALCANAL, June 16 — (Delayed) — The Japanese tried one of the most crushing blows of the Pacific war today as 120 enemy planes of all types came over Skylark Harbor bent on sinking ships that weren't there.

After the smoke had cleared away it was found the Japanese had lost at least 45 Zeros and 32 dive bombers for six of our planes. (A later dispatch from air force headquarters said the enemy may have lost 77 planes in the raid, 77 having been destroyed by anti-aircraft fire in addition to the 77 downed by American fighters.)

I watched the entire attack. Unfortunately for the Japanese, the attack took place in mid-afternoon, under a full sun and no clouds. The enemy had left bases supposedly at Kihili and Ballale Island under a screen of clouds they believed to extend as far southeast as Guadalcanal.

Greeted by Clear Skies
However, when they arrived over Skylark channel between Tugali and Guadalcanal, clear skies greeted the Sons of Heaven and ack-ack from ships and shore batteries blasted the first wave of attackers into the ocean. The second wave comprising dive bombers and torpedo planes came in barely 15 feet above the water. Twenty-six of these were knocked into the sea.

Skipping over objectives, the Japanese made a figure 8 turn and came back to attack. Our ack-ack was ready and, trained for the same height and distance, and before the Japs had a chance to press home their attack our artillery, land-based and on sea craft, sent 16 more torpedo planes to a water-grave.

Zeros Mowed Down
Zero fighters formed a protective screen, not liking the abuse meted out to their comrades, and without a thought to safety came hurtling down.

That was just what our boys wanted. Without a moment's delay our fighters roared down from 20,000 feet and sent 32 Zeros into a fiery dash to the sea. The rest of the attack formation beat a hasty retreat toward home. The boys didn't even bother to molest them.

The attack, if it came from Ballale, represented the total strength shown there in the past few days. If it were split between that island and the base of Kihili on Bougainville Island, it was more than 75 per cent of the strength our reconnaissance planes had reported based on those two airports.

This was one of the worst defeats given the Japanese since the

45,000 HALT WORK; TRUCE ENDS SUNDAY

Union and Soft Coal Operators Plan to Confer in Effort to Avert Tie-Up.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, June 19—The United Mine Workers and the soft coal operators agreed to return to the conference table today to seek a basis for averting another tie-up of the nation's mines with the expiration of the "working truce" tomorrow midnight.

Even as this was discussed a compilation from the mine fields showed that more than 20,000 miners already had left their jobs in protest against the war labor board's refusal to approve pay for underground travel time.

An informed source, disclosing plans for a mid-afternoon meeting, said the miners and the operators have not necessarily agreed to resume collective bargaining on the merits of the demands of the miners, but would "see what can be done about the war labor board order."

President John L. Lewis and the UMW policy committee faced another crucial decision as the deadline of their no-strike truce neared.

Their travel pay demands rejected by the war labor board, the truce runs out tomorrow midnight. But already more than 45,000, including 6,000 in Ohio, of the nation's half million miners have stopped work in protest against the board's stand.

Tolson was intensified, as Lewis postponed a policy committee meeting from 11 a. m. to 4 p. m., eastern war time, presumably to give him more time to consult with lieutenants on the implications of the WLB order referring the miners' portal-to-portal pay claim to the wage and hour administrator, the federal courts, or collective bargaining, as the UMW leadership chooses.

Decision Expected Later
Lewis went into session in the forenoon with his district presidents, but a spokesman said a statement of any kind is unlikely in advance of the full policy meeting late in the day.

A delegation of six miners from Logan county, West Virginia, came to Washington with a request for admission to the White House to present their case. UMW headquarters telephoned presidential secretary Marvin McIntyre, who agreed to see the group.

The UMW, acting after a command by President Roosevelt, stopped the last walkout June 1 but ordered the men to work only until midnight, June 20, while negotiations proceeded on demands for a $2 a day pay boost, representing underground travel time. The operators declared all along they felt they owed the miners nothing.

Signs of unrest appeared immediately after the WLB announcement that portal-to-portal pay represented an "unknown liability" under the Fair Labor Standards act and was therefore a case for the courts to decide.

Only Alternative
The alternative was for the union and the operators to settle out of court but within the national wage stabilization policy.

Three Alabama mines, normally employing more than 7,200, were shut down when the evening crews failed to report.

Pennsylvania's Republic series of stoppages at Altoona, 200 men on a night shift arrived at the mine when they decided not to work a survey of 140 at the Seale Level mine failed to pick up their tools and the late shift of the Clymer and Barr Stone mines of the New York Central railroad, employing about 650, did not report.

The third shift at the Isabelle mine of the Weirton Steel Co. was idle while only a portion of the full crews at Ritcheyville and Denbo showed up.

Night shifts at the Powhatan Point and Willow Grove mines in Ohio refused to work last night. Only a third of the 150 miners on the night shift at the Powhatan workings reported, and all went home shortly after. A full night crew of 150 reported at the Willow Grove pits, but all refused to work.

Cincinnati Packers, Retailers in Mass Protest Against OPA

By The Associated Press
CINCINNATI, June 19—A mass meeting of meat packers, grocers and food distributors in protest against OPA price roll-backs was in the making today following the closing of nine Cincinnati packing plants and the prospect that retail butcher shops here might shut their doors next week.

Packing plant spokesmen said they had been unable to "make the grade under OPA price ceilings."

Cites Black Market
President A. Z. Baker of the Cleveland stockyards said, "the beef supply is being siphoned away by the black market, and government price-ceiling prices prevent profitable operation."

Cincinnati stockyards reported small processors virtually absent from trading and Dayton reported "very little" activity since May 21. U. S. Senator Robert A. Taft, Cincinnati Republican, said in Washington that packers in his home town wanted higher price ceilings instead of federal subsidies designed to roll back prices.

Taft told senators he had talked with a Cincinnati packer yesterday, and added:

Packers Quitting
"This gentleman told me that since Tuesday, four of the city's 17 packers had stopped slaughtering altogether, and had closed their plants; that four more of them will certainly close up next Tuesday, that a mass meeting of all the packers and grocers and wholesale distributors of food is to be held to protest against the present management of price control, particularly with relation to the roll-backs on meat."

Taft, who has declared himself opposed to subsidies for meat packers, has introduced legislation designed to restrict federal roll-back subsidies to $240,000,000.

Forum Session Today
A young people's forum this afternoon followed by a banquet at the First Evangelical and Reformed church, and a candlelight procession, talk by Miss Anna Renninger, worker in the China missionary field and a consecration service in charge of Mrs. H. M. Wright, missionary in the African field, will close today's convention session.

Bible school will be at 9:30 a. m. Sunday and the worship service will be at 10:30 a. m. At the morning session Miss Renninger will deliver a missionary message. The convention will close with services Sunday afternoon with an address, "From Rabbinism and Christian Science to Christ," by Mrs. Wertheimer.

Friday's Program
Approximately 300 delegates, ministers and visitors, attended the communion service, which opened the Friday morning session. Rev. E. E. Nietz, of Columbus, district superintendent presided for the service. Mrs. C. R. Beerbower of Marion, president of the society, gave her message on the theme, "Redeeming the Time." In order to redeem ourselves in these days we must look to the church of the Living God, be a believer in the Bible, live a life of Christ and extend the service of Christian love, she told her audience.

"If we are ever to impress the world, we must represent the church in its right relationship," she continued. "We can be redeemed in the community by being faithful citizens and create Christian homes." She designated the things mentioned as opportunities "we should buy up," and declared "that is the purpose of the Woman's Missionary Society."

Army Camp Service
Annual reports were given. The camp literature committee reported the sending of Christian literature to Army camps and gave the following figures: literature sent to 63 camps and hospital bases, books purchased 2,403, gospel tracts sent out 10,450, books sent to the three Marion county boards.

NEW DRAFT FIELD SECTION SET UP

Col. C. W. Goble, state selective service director, announced today establishment of a field section and assignment of commissioned officers thereto to serve as liaison officers between local draft boards and state selective service headquarters.

Neither of the three Marion county boards has been notified by state headquarters about establishment of a field division, but notifications were received recently in which state headquarters announced a commissioned Army officer would serve as a liaison officer in this area.

In his announcement today Col. Goble said Col. Clay M. Donner would serve Marion and 28 other counties in which 65 local boards are located. Crawford, Morrow, Wyandot and Hardin counties are in the same district as Marion county.

By utilizing commissioned personnel, Col. Goble said he hoped to bring directly and personally to the local boards the changes in policy as they occur. The district liaison officer will meet periodically with local boards and appeal boards to discuss state and national changes in regulation.

Up to now a civilian inspector has been in charge of the duties which under the new setup have been assigned to commissioned liaison officers. The civilian workers, Col. Goble announced, are being assigned to the important duty of classification auditors. Robert R. Shaw, of Columbus has been the civilian inspector for the three Marion county boards.

ITALIAN PEACE MOVE RUMORED

Envoys Reported To Be in French African Capital; Mussolini Breaks Silence.

By The Associated Press
LONDON, June 19—Reuters reported from Algiers today rumors were current that Italian peace envoys, possibly including Crown Prince Umberto and Marshal Pietro Badoglio, were in the French African capital as Premier Mussolini presided over a cabinet meeting in Rome which the Italian radio said approved new decrees.

Official London quarters said they had no confirmation of the rumors of peace envoys in Algiers, and efforts to verify the rumors there were unavailing. Umberto commands an army group; Badoglio was deposed as chief of staff early in the war.

The report recalled the statement of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, made in January at Casablanca, that only "unconditional surrender" would be accepted from any weakening axis nation.

Mussolini Breaks Silence
Mussolini stepped back into the limelight last night after a week of strange silence, declaring nine threatened southern Italian provinces "operational zones." This meant martial law was extended to supply their fanatic fliers with parachutes.

Our casualties were mostly minor. As for the Japanese, many of their pilots were burned to a crisp before they hit the water and others were drowned, because the high command still refuses to supply their fanatic fliers with parachutes.

War Production Down in May; Over-Confidence Is Blamed

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, June 19—Blaming "over-confidence and complacency" for slackened war production in May Undersecretary of War Patterson said today that if this situation continues "our overseas troops will suffer from shortages of critical equipment."

"This is the most critical period in military supply," he told a press conference.

Patterson also deplored strikes in industry and diversion of management talent to "civilian non-essentials."

"At one point," he mentioned, "I encountered a fitting production line to changing strategic requirements and struck this invasion of Europe, not of operations, but of the mainland of Europe without drastic revisions in armament."

Specifically, Patterson said, the Army's production needs of the Army ground forces last month were "the most critical single occurrence of the Army supply program."

Production Dips 3 1/2 Per Cent
Production in May, he said, was scheduled to increase 2 per cent to a total volume of $1,582,000,000

What's The Situation on Rayon?

By DOROTHY ROE

Associated Press Fashion Editor

If you have to get along with one of the rayon dress makers, you may be surprised to find that the extra one is going into a fire for an Army uniform.

Growing military demand for heavy-duty rayon cord is cutting a large amount of the American civilian wardrobe this year—and the loss is due to grow steadily larger, as the production of synthetic rubber increases.

Officials of the rayon industry estimate that of the possible total 1943 rayon production of about 570,000,000 pounds of all types, about 455,000,000 pounds will be available for civilian use. This represents a drop of about 29 percent from the peace-time production of 570,000,000 pounds in 1941.

It is expected that some 150,000,000 pounds of viscose rayon cord will go into heavy Army use this year, with an eventual goal set by the war department of 200,000,000 pounds.

Of the remainder, 4 percent of both viscose and acetate rayon is allocated for good neighbor export, and more than 30,000,000 pounds of the remainder for additional war needs.

Spun rayon yarn, the kind that is used to make fabric, which looks like wool is the least affected by wartime shortages. Of the total production of about 152,000,000 pounds, only about 15 percent is needed for military uses.

Out of the approximate 405,000,000 pounds of rayon expected to be available for civilian use this year, almost 30,000,000 pounds will go into hosiery and silk replacements, leaving some 375,000,000 pounds for all types of fabrics, including those used for linens, dresses, suits and accessories.

Here's What You'll Get

Rayon fabrics for civilian wear have been drastically simplified, with only a few basic weaves available. In the spun rayon group, you will be able to purchase the following staple classics: gabardine, twills, men's wear suitings, flannels and tweed type fabrics.

Instead of the myriad rayon crepes and similar dressy fabrics formerly on the market, you will now find in the shops a smaller selection of weaves. The heavier rayon crepes are being eliminated in order to produce more yards with fewer pounds. Important in the summer fabric lineup are the following rayons: light-weight flannels, rayon broadcloth, printed rayon jersey, staple sheers, faille, bengaline, shantung and linen-textured spun rayon fabrics.

All these are available in a wide range of colors and many striking prints. Some of the new wartime fabrics are even handsomer than their predecessors. The difficulty lies not in the quality but in the quantity available.

Consumer To Feel Pinch

Thus far, consumers have hardly begun to feel the shortages, because of the existing reserve stocks carried by most stores and manufacturers. Wholesalers feel the pinch about six months after a shortage hits the raw-material market. The individual consumer isn't aware of it until some six months later. Thus it takes about a year before reduced production of rayon yarn is evident on America's Main Street, and Mrs. Jones is shocked to find that she can't buy the same kind of dress she had last year, or that the shop has no more of her favorite fabric.

By next winter, manufacturers predict, wartime shortages will begin to be more evident to retail buyers. But it is hoped that by one time or another to incomplete loss in our own soul, and life, because of sin. Realizing our need we see the death of our Lord. I Cor. 15:3 "how that Christ died for us."

Special Programs for Sunday

Observance of Father's Day and Children's Day Scheduled in Several Churches.

Two special observances will be marked in several Marion churches tomorrow with programs and sermons. Completeness in Christ

A SERMONETTE BY REV. ALBERT M. HOOD

Pastor of Second Pilgrim Holiness Church

"And ye are complete in Him which is the head of all principality and power." Colossians 2:10.

OFTEN in life we hear expressions, some of relief, others of content, heard on the completion of any given task, then on the other hand we hear the groanings over the fact of something remaining undone.

How blessed it is to stand and view a work when it is complete, knowing we have put ourselves to the task, and it is now completed before us, no wonder we sigh with relief.

The great heart of God, so filled with love, and knowing the far reaching lack in the lives of men, set out with those in the realms of glory to complete a plan of redemption. That redemption, though conceived from the foundation of the world, is still sufficient in the lives of the obedient today.

"Christ, the Son of God, in fitting into God's plan of redemption is able to speak to the world and say, "and I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto Me." Truly in awakening to our lack and vast incompleteness we must need look to "the Author and Finisher of our Faith."

Christ in His life, set forth a glorious example, that patterning after that example we can attain to our completeness.

First of all the great God-filled life of our Saviour awakes us at one time or another to incompleteness in our own soul, and life, because of sin. Realizing our need we see the death of our Lord. I Cor. 15:3 "how that Christ died for us."

There is a fountain filled with blood, Drawn from Immanuel's veins, And sinners, plunged beneath the flood, Lose all their guilty stain.

Yes, not only the pardoning virtues but the quickening unto a new life, hid with Christ in God, is ours and we step forth a new born child of God. Amen. Oh, the blessings that flood the soul, and we say with Paul, "Blessed be God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ."

No, to be saved does not complete our spiritual life. Many are the sad hearts that are not complete in their experience, because they have rebelled against the light and are not sanctified unto God. "Jesus also that He might sanctify the people with His own blood suffered without the gate. Saved—yes, sweetly, clearly, saved, sanctified, not then we are not complete. Simply walking in the light, trusting God the blood atones and the Holy Spirit comes in.

Complete? No! Trials, tests, burdens, crosses, sunshine, shadow all are fitted into our lives each drawing us nearer to completion in Christ. Jesus, speaking words of love, tells us "He that is faithful unto death—the same shall be saved." Overcoming by His grace, faithful till death, we shall join the great host that sing the songs of joy for "He has perfected that which concerned thee" and brought us to completion in Himself.

And when before the throne I stand in Him complete, Jesus died my soul to save, My lips shall still repeat.

Let us attain to, and obtain in, our lives that which will in eternity make us complete in Christ.

REV. E. M. HERTZLER HEADS CHURCH GROUP

Elected President of Marion County Council.

Rev. E. M. Hertzler of First Church of the Brethren was elected president of the Marion County Council of Churches in a recent election.

Rev. Charles W. Harmon of the Green Camp Baptist church was elected first vice president, Mr. E. L. Walmer of Marion, second vice president, Miss Clara J. Dorn, secretary and Fred L. Galt, treasurer.

Rev. Hertzler has been temporary president of the body since its organization last fall pending regulation election of officers.

Marion Baptists Join in General Program

Churches of the Marion Baptist association will participate in activities of the denomination coming months for which national headquarters of the Northern Baptist convention have already begun preliminary planning.

Because of transportation disruptions the annual gathering of the convention set for June 1 in Denver, Colo., has been dropped, with a newspaper, Northern Baptist World Times, was published June 5, carrying reports, reviews, editorials, articles and proposed plans of action, every phase of work considered by convention sessions.

World Parish days will be observed in 6,000 Baptist churches across the nation between Oct. 1 and April 1, 1944 with the purpose of "the church in the world." The Convention is coming to "your church." Matters usually considered by the convention will be taken to the congregations instead of delegates from churches gathering for convention in metropolitan center. Each church will decide the date of its World Parish day. Nationally known denominational speakers will be featured.

Other phases of convention wide concern discussed were programs of meeting world emergency, postwar plans, church extension, support for world missions, ministers' pension crusade and a program of action for the new Youth Fellowship organization.

TENNIS INSTRUCTION OPENS ON Y COURTS

Free Lessons Given; Play Increases During Week.

Developments in the Y.M.C.A. tennis program at the Vernon Heights courts this past week included starting of daily tennis classes and increase of regular play of Y members.

Tennis instruction is given from 10:30 to 11:30 each morning excepting Sunday. Free lessons are being given to anyone, member or non-member of the Y, during June.

Special summer rates have been set up by Y officials in order to give more Marionites an opportunity to play regularly on the three Vernon Heights clay courts.

Instructor at the courts is Bruce Nystrom, who is also court supervisor. By the first of July, additional teachers probably will be employed by the Y to handle anticipated increased enrollment.

The courts open each day of the week at 12 noon excepting Sunday when they are open all day.

Fighters in New Guinea Help Finance the War

By International News Service

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA—Doughboys and airmen in this theater are doing more than fight; they are helping finance the war.

Officers and men of a light bombardment unit which has been in the thick of the fighting for more than a year are investing about a fourth of their pay in war bonds.

In the first three months of this year, they invested $51,123 in bonds. Of that total, $32,013 was invested in March.

In every squadron except one, enlisted men are buying more bonds than the officers.

PLAN FUNERAL IN GALION DROWNING

Rites Set for Monday; Coroner's Verdict Upheld.

Special to The Star

GALION, June 12—Funeral arrangements were completed today for the funeral of Robert Sargel, 25, of Galion, victim of an early morning drowning at the Big Four reservoir here yesterday. The funeral will be held at 4 p. m. Monday at the Snyder funeral home, where the body is at the present time.

Rev. R. K. Elicker of the First Reformed church of Galion will conduct the services. Burial will be made in the Galion Fairview cemetery.

Under the direction of Albert French of Bucyrus, sheriff of Crawford county, an investigation of the causes and circumstances of the drowning was held yesterday afternoon. After questioning of Sargel's swimming companions, the verdict of accidental drowning given by Crawford county's coroner, O. B. Kackley, was upheld.

Galion city police, who arrived at the scene of the drowning about 2:30 a. m. yesterday, were informed by the seven other swimmers who accompanied Sargel that he had been to the China Pig, a Galion restaurant, with them previous to the fatal swim.

They and Sargel had decided to take a swim in the reservoir water, swarmed by a constant flow from the nearby Galion municipal light and power plant.

According to his companions, Sargel was unable to swim and had stepped in 15 feet of water and disappeared. When city firemen recovered the body at 3:45, there was no water in Sargel's lungs which had led to earlier belief that the drowning had been caused by a heart attack.

In addition to Sheriff French, Mayor William Amann and Chief of Police James Walker of Galion and Deputy Sheriffs Ralph Schrock and Jacobus of Crawford county helped to conduct the investigation.

In the course of the investigation the swimming companions of Sargel were questioned. They were Sgts. Joseph Fotherell, Ralph McPherson and Louis Shoemaker of Camp Millard, Bucyrus, Mrs. Harold Williams of Galion, and Misses Doris Mouser, Viola Kentz, and Betty Winnegar of Bucyrus.

Set. Shoemaker barely escaped death by drowning at approximately the same time of Sargel's disappearance in the reservoir. He was rescued by the other two soldiers and revived by the combined use of artificial respiration and a fire department pump.

Your EMPTY SOFT DRINK BOTTLES Will Send BOY SCOUTS To Camp

The Boy Scouts of Marion and Marion County have enlisted to collect the thousands of empty soft drink bottles in this section. Hundreds of Scouts will perform the job. The drive starts Friday, June 18. A Scout will call at your door in line of duty. He will ask for your empty returnable bottles. Please give them to him.

Make a survey now of the empty bottles stored about your home or garage . . . bottles that should be returned to the bottler to whom they belong . . . to conserve vital materials . . . and assure an ample supply of soft drink containers for residents of this area.

When you turn over your "empties" to him you perform a dual service . . . you contribute to the Boy Scout fund that will send worthy Scouts to Camp Owens . . . you restore idle bottles to active service and thereby enable the glass industry to continue the manufacture of glass containers so badly needed for the armed forces at home and abroad.

When a SCOUT Calls at Your Home — Give Him Your Bottles

The Scout that calls at your home is giving his time for this project. He, along with other Scouts, will cover every home in this city in the drive to obtain empty bottles.

The empty bottles will be turned in to dealers by the Scouts for the rebate, which in turn will be credited to the Scouts' camp expenses.

RAF Says Duesseldorf, Ruhr Capital, in Ruins

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 19.—The air ministry said today Duesseldorf "is in ruins," with more than 1,000 acres devastated after the great attack by RAF heavy bombers June 11.

"When a complete count of all the damage has been made, it is thought that the figures will be more like 1,500 acres—considerably over two square miles," the air ministry said after an examination of aerial photographs made following the night attack in which Duesseldorf and other places in the Ruhr and Rhineland were bombed.

"This is the most shattering blow to the German war potential which so far has been struck in the battle of the Ruhr," the report said.

Duesseldorf is the administrative capital of the whole Ruhr district and the leading commercial city of western Germany.

At Least 19 Ohio Mines Idle

By The Associated Press

BELLEVILLE, O., June 19.—At least 19 Ohio mines, including the state's largest, were idle today in the wake of a war labor board ruling denying miners pay for underground travel.

Fourteen of the closed pits were in the Hocking Valley, and coal sources at Athens estimated about 3,500 men were affected. Three hundred were idle at the Big Run mine at Seneca in Jefferson county.

Men declined to enter the shafts both on the midnight and morning shifts at the Powhatan plant mine, Ohio's largest, the Willow Grove shaft at Neffs and the Dugan Pit of the Hanna Coal Co. near Dillonvale. Miners failed to work at the Ral and River Coal Co. No. 3 mine near Big Run today.

Powhatan employees 1,030 Willow Grove 639, and the other two a total of several hundred.

The work stoppages began 24 hours before the deadline set by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, for expiration of a third work treaty in shafts now under federal control.

Cereal Plant Destroyed and War Factory Damaged; 3 Firemen Hurt.

By The Associated Press

MASSILLON, O., June 19.—A $1,000,000 fire destroyed the Buckeye Cereal Co. last night, and damaged an adjacent war factory, turning out 1½ rifle and other articles for the government.

Fire Chief Raymond Earle said the blaze of undetermined origin spread from the cereal firm to a storeroom of the Massillon-Cleveland-Akron Sign Co.

Three firemen were hurt from a ladder and injured by an explosion of flour dust in the Buckeye plant, Earle said. Three freight cars loaded for shipment and four others on a siding were destroyed and damage to power lines disrupted service to nearly half the city for 45 minutes.

President E. M. Stultz of the cereal concern estimated loss to his firm at $250,000. George A. Cecil, sign company accountant, said damage to the war factory and to material for the rifle, insect tanks, camouflage and other articles for the government would exceed $750,000.

Fire companies from Canton, Canal Fulton and Napoleon aided Massillon units in battling the four-hour flames.

WAVELL NAMED NEW VICEROY OF INDIA

London Also Announces New East Asia Command.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, June 19.—Great Britain today appointed Field Marshal Sir Archibald Percival Wavell as Viceroy of India and announced the forthcoming formation of a new east Asia command to direct the final death blow against Japan.

The London press hailed the Wavell appointment and predicted he would take the earliest opportunity to emphasize that the British government intends to give India self rule as soon after the war as possible.

The proposal to set up the new military command implied Britain's promise to add her full might to that of the United Nations in the European fight against Japan when a successful conclusion, a promise first voiced by Prime Minister Churchill.

To take Wavell's place as commander-in-chief in India the British government appointed Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, who was relieved as British commander in the middle east in 1942.

Field Marshal Wavell, now in Britain, will return to India to begin his duties when Lord Linlithgow's term expires in October.

General Auchinleck takes over at once as Indian military commander, a position he held in 1940-41 before being shifted to the middle east.

15 TO 1 SHOT WINS ENGLAND'S DERBY

Straight Deal, Owned by Dorothy Paget, Is Victor.

By The Associated Press

NEWMARKET, England, June 19.—Straight Deal, a 15 to 1 shot owned by Dorothy Paget, one of Britain's most prominent horsewomen, won the historic Derby today by sweeping from fifth place in the last half mile.

The Aga Khan's Umiddah was second and his Nashullah was third.

Persian Gulf finished fourth and the favorite, Kingsway which is owned by Lord Astor, came in fifth. First reports had said Kingsway was fourth, but an official derby ruling put the favorite fifth.

The race was worth approximately $18,000 to the winner and was run in a strange setting, stripped of all its pre-war finery.

Unofficially, the time was two minutes, 30.25 seconds, which is nearly three seconds faster than yesterday's odds over the same course.

The race is one mile and 833 yards and for three-year olds, colts and fillies.

Change in India Expected To Spell Grief for Japan

By The Associated Press

CRITICS of our policy in the Pacific—and there are many of them—may well be silenced by the half-told story of British changes in India, and the official announcement there is to be a separate East Asia command.

The Japanese aren't surprised. They either have a first class intelligence service or from Premier Hiroto Tojo down they have been thinking for several weeks on their short wave radios and in broadcasts designed for home consumption about a coming allied offensive directed solely against Japan.

India has been spotlighted. Japan's military masters have been talking glibly about the subject at every opportunity, and asserting the native population of India that they weren't really at war with them—it was the hated white man they were after.

This is smart propaganda, but it won't work if Sir Archibald Wavell is up to his eyes in the job. Britain is determined all of India shall do her part in winning the war against the axis.

The former field marshal is a soldier, and try as he may he won't be able to keep his military training out of the complex situation in India, which ranges from religious problems, black market operations in cotton and other businesses to actual fighting of the Japanese enemy.

Sir Archibald, but Britain is holding back her announcement of who it is that will be in command of the East Asia theater. He evidently is not the man who will direct the big-scale operations against Japan.

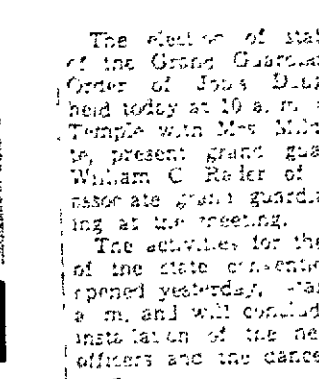

General Douglas MacArthur has been the most successful allied commander to match a fight with the Japanese, but it isn't probable he will take the job. First of all he is an American, and another American general is in supreme command in Africa; because Australia must be defended, and the entrenched Japanese must be driven back from the island bases in the South Pacific area.

Japs Stir India

The Japanese have had a great deal more to do with the present unrest in India than is known generally. Mitsuru Toyama, the evil old man who runs Japan's secret societies, has succeeded to belittle Indians for years.

Now that the first move toward strengthening our position has been made we should not become impatient for immediate action. The groundwork for an attack has been made. The actual offensive must wait until autumn, after the rains in Burma which undoubtedly is the next objective.

We also need a more potent source of food, particularly rice, for India and the loss of these supplies would be a severe blow to the Japanese.

W. C. T. U. Instructor Speaks

Mrs. Charles Ensign of Alliance, scientific temperance instructor of the state W. C. T. U. spoke on "How Alcohol Has Changed the Maps of the World." She urged the women to inform themselves on the scientific effect of alcohol and act as missionaries by informing others and serving as a personal example for right. This was followed by a talk on the mission work being conducted among the migrants in the Scioto marshes by Mrs. Charles M. Roudelush of Columbus, interim secretary of the Women's Department of the Ohio Council of Churches.

The department has opened up recently three small stations at Haskins, Convey and Burgoon, she said. The purpose of the women's department, she stated, is to help women work together, help with matters of common interest, promote a feeling of sisterhood and help care for those less fortunate.

Talk on Latin-America

Mrs. T. Neil Jones of Tallmadge, lecturer and traveler, talked on "The Southern Cross," dealing with Latin America. There are 18 colonies speaking Spanish, there are 60 million and 80 dialects spoken by the Indians, the population is about 125 million of which 25 million are white and 15 million black, she stated. She described their traits as friendly, and said they are a very demonstrative and individualistic people. In discussing the economics of the country she stated that the poverty is extreme and wages very low. There is a high rate of illiteracy, she said, and stated that Brazil spent only one-fourteenth as much money on education as New York City alone. In some places she said, the illiteracy is as high as 82 per cent; while an average is 40 to 45 per cent. Health conditions are low and eight out of every 10 deaths are from germ diseases, she stated.

"They do not have race prejudice there as we have here—they are looking to us to see what we are doing about some of the conditions and it is up to us to try and send them the best of everything," she said in closing.

Thursday Night Program

Rev. P. E. Smoke, pastor of the host church, conducted the devotion Thursday night. He had as his theme, "First the Kingdom." Music was by the Ministers Conference chorus and the speaker was Mrs. Reminger, who brought greetings from the Women's Missionary Society in China. Just recently organized, she said of the enthusiasm of the Chinese women for their work, and said they are so poor their offering often amounts to only four dollars to six dollars a month. Thank-offering boxes are fashioned from the jointed parts of bamboo trees upon which they inscribe the mission of the boxes, she said, and contributions range from less than $1 to $23. The fact that their homes have not been destroyed, they have no sickness in their homes nor fires in their communities are among the things for which the Chinese women say they are thankful.

Timely Film Now at Ohio

"Mission to Moscow," Starring Walter Huston, Shows Through Thursday.

Showing and continuing Monday at the Ohio theater is "Mission to Moscow," with Walter Huston and Ann Harding. The film is the pictureization of the Ambassador Joseph E. Davies' book and it gives his recollections of the vital mission entrusted to him by the President. This story is an eyewitness account of Russia through the eyes of a typical American and is told by Mr. Davies, during his years in the Russian capital as ambassador, went where he pleased, saw what he pleased and became friends with high Soviet leaders.

Mr. Davies himself has appeared in the film in its entirety. Although a few dramatic liberties were taken, he stated that the picture is a true and correct representation of history. "Gentleman Jim" starring Ernest Borgnine and Alexis Smith will start Tuesday and continue through Thursday. Packing all the excitement of the 1880's and the life of the gay nineties, it is an action account of the life of James J. Corbett, one-time heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

Laurel and Hardy in "Jitterbug" will start Friday and continue through Monday. This is one of the best comedies yet produced by the Laurel and Hardy team and the story is built around the two who are cast as wayward maesters of jive. The movie covers a lot of ground and as the picture opens, they are in the middle of a lonely desert, where they are taken in by a fast-talking slicker who gets them to go into partnership with him. When they are exposed as a carnival, the boys nearly shed their suits for tar and feathers, but manage to escape, only to find themselves all mixed up in a land swindle. They pursue the swindlers and are in turn pursued by the law. The hilarious climax finds the comedians piloting a show boat headlong down the river.

Sharing the bill is "Prelude to War," the sensational government film showing the might of the Hitler-Hitler-Mussolini com-

Palace Screen To Show "Slightly Dangerous"

Lana Turner and Robert Young Co-Starred in Comedy Film Starting Sunday.

Lana Turner and Robert Young in "Slightly Dangerous" will start Sunday at the Palace Theater and continue through Wednesday.

Lana Turner mixes sodas blindfolded and figures in adventures ranging from an amnesia masquerade to a home romance with Robert Young in "Slightly Dangerous." The picture made for laughs will keep you well entertained.

Miss Turner plays the part of a soda clerk in a department store. Tiring of her humdrum existence, she leaves a suicide note, poses as an amnesia victim and long lost daughter of a millionaire. Young, the new store manager, is blamed for the "suicide." He sets out to find her and save his job. Complications follow until the climax finds the two principals madly in love.

Miss Turner handles comedy with a flair that proves her talent in this type of role. Young is perfect as the harassed store manager and Walter Brennan is at his best as the "sugar daddy." A double feature, "It's A Great Life," with Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake and "Night Plane From Chungking," starring Robert Preston, Ellen Drew and Otto Kruger will start Thursday and continue through Saturday.

Something new has been added to the latest edition of the Blonde films and this time it isn't a baby. The story, adapted to the screen from the comic strip, concerns the Bumstead's zany adventures resulting from Dogwood's misguided purchase of a horse. The misadventure all comes about when Dogwood mistakenly buys a horse instead of a house.

Hugh Herbert, an eccentric millionaire, practically falls in love with the animal and invites the Bumsteads out to his estate to join him in a fashionable fox-hunt.

FEED SHORTAGE MAY HIT PORK

Hog Production Due Lack of Feeds Is Predicted by Expert.

June 19 — Some hog production may be seriously curtailed in the near future, as predicted by an expert. The shortage of feed grains, particularly corn and soybeans, is expected to have a significant impact on the pork industry. Experts warn that without adequate feed supplies, hog production will decline sharply, leading to a shortage of pork products in the market.

A 2,500,000 Acre Garden Project

Grand Coulee Dam To Irrigate Lands for 400,000.

Map shows how Grand Coulee dam will divert the waters of the Columbia river and make a garden of the desert. The view looks south.

By J. CLARENCE MOORE
Associated Press Writer
GRAND COULEE, Wash. June 19.—Hang your imagination on a set of sky hooks and let's talk about a garden that would make the state of Rhode Island look like a postage stamp and support a town as big as Kansas City. We're talking about the Grand Coulee irrigation project, now largely a sagebrush-ridden desert area which the Bureau of Reclamation says will one day team with 400,000 people when the elixir of the Columbia river has transmuted the dead land into lush green gardens. The war has delayed start of the project and no date has been set for it. But its future is certain.

The project area, totaling 2,500,000 acres in central Washington and rated by the Bureau of Reclamation as the greatest of its major big irrigation projects, is large enough to blot out Lake Ontario on the map.

Fast Undeveloped Area
The 1,200,000 acres of the area which are irrigable are said by Frank A. Buehls, engineer in charge of construction of Grand Coulee Dam, to compose the finest body of undeveloped land in the west.

The flow of water which will feed the project will be handled by a pumping capacity at the dam great enough to supply the 130,000,000 people in the nation with all the domestic water they normally use.

To scoop out of the earth only the main canals needed to carry this flow means building waterways with a total length nearly as great as the Potomac river. One canal, which could carry the output of a fair-sized river, will extend 11 miles, from the dam reservoir and then to divide into two watercourses. One of these will swing south 150 miles to reach the eastern and southern parts of the project. The second must be 100 miles long to reach the western part of the irrigable land.

Landscape Pattern
Hundreds of miles of laterals will branch and rebranch from these two main arteries until they pattern the landscape like a venous system.

Today, in two-thirds of the project area little else than sheep can find sustenance on the scanty forage that subsists between the sagebrush. Dry farming of wheat is carried out on some lands. Bureau of Reclamation studies show that these lands can blossom into a rich farming empire. Some areas are suited to dairying and fields may be green with the alfalfa and other forage crops needed to support them.

Rows of fruit trees may supplant the gray sagebrush in other areas. Truck crops are forecast as possibilities for some soils—lettuce, asparagus, potatoes and other vegetables.

Would Mean New Towns
Now only 10,000 people live in the project area and towns are few and small. The bureau expects to see new towns and industries spring up as soon as the reclamation program is well under way until a total of 400,000 is finally reached.

The project is expected to be developed over a period of 25 years or so with units of 20,000 to 50,000 acres thrown open to irrigation each year, depending on current conditions.

However, the project is not considered just a distant possibility. It has been cited in Congress as a source of farm homes for many of the soldiers who return from the wars. Likewise, it has been described as the greatest works project now ready to provide employment after the war.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

"YES, I suppose he will," I said, "winning, for I know all too well my husband's talent for teasing. But I added resignedly, 'there's nothing I can do about it.'"

"Not unless you murder him," Katharine agreed, "and I don't suppose you'd consider that." I pretended to ponder the proposition. "I don't think that would be advisable today," I mused. "Too much on hand. Perhaps some other day."

"Save me a front seat," Katharine objected, and as I rose and walked toward the door, "What's on your mind?" she queried. "Nothing much," I answered, "except that I haven't anything on hand between now and the time Daddy gets here, and I might as well tell Olga about getting over here in the morning."

She tried to smother a giggle. She tried to smother a giggle, failed ignominiously, and I whirled around to face her. "What's so funny about that?" I demanded.

"I can't you," she said, "but, didn't I hear your father say you had to be at that hotel at eight o'clock in the morning to meet Hallican, the make-up man?"

"Yes, but I don't!"

"And that means," she went on, ignoring my answer, "that you'll have to start from here by seven-thirty, and the corollary is that little Olga will have to sprint over here some time before that."

And with such exciting events in the offing, you may be sure that Olga, who means of course Papa Phil, will be toddling along after their child. Now, tell me, did you ever know Philip Ver-luz to see a sunrise? I mean, to get up in time to see one? He probably has seen plenty after staying up all night.

"He certainly doesn't go in for early rising," I agreed.

"Exactly," she said. "So can you blame me for a quiet chuckle when I visualize the suffering of the great impresario when he has to spring—or, more probably, has to lumber—from his comfortable couch at that unearthly hour?"

Leaves the Apartment

"Sadist!" I flung at her as well as I could for laughing at the picture she had drawn, and then went swiftly out of the apartment, down the corridor, and up in the lift to the top floor.

The guard on duty stepped forward as I rounded the turn in the corridor. Then, as he recognized me, he touched his cap and stopped back again. I sounded the artistic old knocker, and Philip Ver-luz himself came to the door. He looked surprised when he saw me.

"There is a little change of plan about the time of Olga's coming over," I explained, "so I thought I'd tell her about it now, and get it out of the way."

"Of course," he agreed. "Come on in."

He ushered me into the big sitting room of the suite where Olga and Olga were seated before the cheerful fire. They bore to greet me, and when we were all seated again, I explained the change in plan.

Regrets the Hour

"It is too bad to get you out at that unconscionable hour, Olga," I said, but Olga answered before her daughter could speak. "The inconvenience is nothing," she said, "when we consider what you are doing. Philip was telling us of the disguise you are to assume to enable you to watch over our daughter at that hotel. But who is to be with her on her journey to the bank, and then on to the other hotel?"

"I do not know," I said, "but you may be sure that my father

YOUR HEALTH

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THIS ARTICLE is intended to be read, marked and inwardly digested at the beginning of summer.

I do not know where, or in what particular condition, of freedom, imprisonment or servitude, Mr. Gandhi will be when this article appears to print. I have mixed emotions about Mr. Gandhi, but I do not intend to deal here with his political, religious, or to any great extent, his dietary views.

But as a bio-chemist, even a political bio-chemist, I commend Mr. Gandhi wholeheartedly. Some time ago Mr. Gandhi's platform was based on his protest against the British monopoly on salt in India.

In this I think Mr. Gandhi is perfectly correct, certainly so far as India is concerned.

In North America, for at least eight months of the year, salt is a commodity and we could do with a good deal less than we actually consume, as is shown by the fact that we excrete large quantities of it. The amount of salt which is necessary for an adult per day, according to the scientific dietitians, is 5 grams, which is hardly more than one-third teaspoonful.

Most of us use three or four times that amount.

It does not follow, as food faddists believe, that our health would be improved if we ate less salt but in the winter time at least few of us would suffer in health on a smaller consumption.

This is true for North America in the winter time, but it is not true for India and it is not true for most of North America in the summertime.

Our knowledge of the necessity for salt goes back to some investigations by Professor Moss, who was professor of mining at the University of Birmingham, on the diet of coal miners. He found that diet of coal miners, and used astonishing quantities of salty foods, such as bacon and red herring. They also used a great deal of table salt and always salted their food heavily.

It was shown that this instinctive preference was simply to make up for the salt lost in sweating. The world's sweating record of two quarts an hour is held by an English coal miner; many of them will lose as much as 18 pounds in a single shift in a hot mine. This would mean about one ounce of salt, to say nothing of the water. Few of us consume more than one-third ounce of salt a day.

that results in cramps in the muscles, are due entirely to loss of salt from the body and one of the first treatments for heat stroke is to get salt and water into the pores as fast as possible. If they are too sick or unconscious and unable to take it by mouth, it should be given in the form of under the skin.

In India during the hot weather a person consumes 24 pints a day and to make up the loss, over one ounce of salt per day is needed. Salt is thus an essential component of the diet and a tax on salt is a bad biology, as well as bad politics.

Answer: Functional murmurs of the heart are very common and are not due to any organic disease of the heart, such as valvular disease or high blood pressure. They are likely to be caused by such things as you mention—a cold or nervousness or perhaps a thin condition of the blood.

H. G.—Does everyone have a pneumonia germ, the same as a flu germ, and when the system is run down, the germ develops? Is pneumonia contagious?

R. E. H.—Could an internal hernia, just above the navel, eventually cause irregularity of the heart?
